SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

 A quilting-frame has been invented that can be used in connection with a sewing-machine. - Chicago Times.

The farmers of Hartford County, Md., have $1,000,000 invested in canning factories, and the business is still growing.

-Mrs. Edison, the wife of the inventor, is the originator of what promises to be a popular arrangement of the electric light in chandeliers.—N. Y.

-A factory at Savannah, Ga., clears $400 per day by manufacturing a superior quality of wrapping paper out of rice straw and palm leaves, formerly waste material. Manufacturing interests are developing all over the South. -Chicago Inter-Ocean.

-The speed at which explosions can travel has been looked into by M. Berthelot. He took for the gasses carbonic oxide and oxygen, and these he exploded in a tube sixteen inches long and one-third inch in diameter, by means of electricity. The rate observed was the unexpectedly high one of 2,500 metres a second.

-The introduction of electricity as a substitute for lamps and candles on board ship is making rapid progress. There is one source of safety in this to the ship and the passengers. All lights are put out at eleven o'clock. After this time people may talk in the dark, but there is no possibility of the reckless use of lights and lamps. - Chicago Journal.

-A simple and useful bolt has been invented by Mr. Arnott, of the Lyceum Theater (London), having for its object the fastening of doors of theaters and other public buildings, so that they can be opened by mere pressure against the door from the inside, and not at all from the outside, dispensing with all other fastenings, which cause so many accidents in cases of panic. One advantage is, that being once unfastened it can not be rebolted by accident.

—It was reported a short time ago that piles had been driven by dynamite in some German experiments. Later advices concerning the process state that an iron plate sixteen inches in diameter and five inches thick is placed on the top of the pile to be driven, and upon this plate a pound-and-a-half charge of dynamite is exploded by electricity. The force of the explosion drives the pile into the mud as far as would five blows struck by a weight of 3,250 pounds falling from a height of ten feet, The system was originated by Herr Pradamovic, City Engineer of Pesth.

-A Bridgeport (Conn.) man has produced an invention so dangerous that the Government refused him a patent on it. The description tells of a hollow steel belt filled with compressed air from an air pump, and which can be worn so that it is completely conceated, with the exception of a tiny nipple protruding through a vest buttonhole; a pellet of condensed poison placed in this force sufficient to penetrate a quarterinch of rawhide, a distance of forty feet; and if the pellet penetrates the human skin, in fifteen minutes death ensues, although the first indications of poisoning do not appear under five minutes .- Boston Post.

-Wisconsin reports a hail-storm which knocked the horns off a steer, but that is nothing; Pennsylvania had a hail-storm last summer which split the top crust of a pie baked by a Vassar College girl who is known to the para-grapher of the Philadelphia Call.

—A big Yankee from Maine, on pay-ing his bill in a London restaurant, was told that the sum put down didn't include the waiter. "Wal," he roared, "I didn't eat any waiter; did I?" He looked as if he could, though; and there was no further discussion.—N. Y.

-On the edge of a small river in the County of Cavan, in Ireland, there is (or used to be) a stone with the following inscription cut upon it, no doubt intended for the information of strangers traveling that way: "N. B .- When this stone is out of sight it is not safe to ford the river."

The following is Artemas Ward's description of why he courted Betsey Jane: "There were many affectin' ties which made me hanker after Betsey Jane. Her father's farm joined ourn; their cows and ourn squenched their thirst at the same spring; our old mares both had stars in their forreds; the measles broke out in both families at nearly the same time; our parents (Betsey Jane's and mine) slept regularly every Sunday in the same meetin'house, and the nabors used to obsarve: How thick the Wards and Peasles air.' It was a sublime sight in the spring of the year to see our several mothers (Betsey's and mine) with their gowns pinned up so that they couldn't sile 'em, effeckshunitely bilin' soap together and aboosin' their nabors."

-Sugar-cane is found to resist drought much better than any kind of corn. Its roots strike much more deeply than corn, and after it is knee high it will thrive with little rain, provided the weather is warm and the soil is in good

-A New York farmer declares that the wheat, oats and barley which he dragged last spring, in some doubt as to whether he was not doing more harm than good, yielded thirty-three per cent. more grain than that not dragged, though the latter was on the richest and best ground.

-Baked Berry-Rolls: Roll biscuit dough thin in the form of a large square or into small squares. Spread over with berries. Roll the crust and put into a dripping-pan close together until full; then put into the pan water, sugar and pieces of butter. Bake them. Serve with any of the pudding sauces.— Prairie Farmer.

-It is sometimes said that it is impossible to grow too much fruit in this country, on account of the immense demand for fruit of all kinds. It is possible to grow too much inferior fruit; but of the finer varieties there can not be too abundant a supply. There will unquestionably always be a good market for superior fruit.—Exchange.

-The New York Times reminds farmers that smut is rapidly increasing, few crops being free from it. A solution of four ounces of blue vitriol-sulphate of copper-dissolved in a gallon of water for each five bushels of seed, which is steeped in it until it is absorbed, has been found the most effective to destroy the minute spores which produce the

-Here is a very simple recipe for a China cement, which rarely fails, and as it can be home-made is inexpensive: Mix a little lime or calcined plaster of Paris with the white of one egg. To use it, take a sufficient quantity of the egg to mend one article at a time; shave off a quantity of the lime and mix thoroughly; apply quickly to the edges and place firmly together, when the parts will very soon adhere and the cup or plate become as strong as ever .- Detroit

-Hashing Roast Pork: Put into a stewpan two tablespoonfuls of cider vinegar, two or three cloves, three onions chopped finely, with a little salt: cover tightly, and stew till tender. Preparing the Asparagus Bed for Winter.

The usual practice is to mow off the tops of asparagus after they have been killed by frost, and burn them up. This is done to get rid of the seed, but by so doing the land is left exposed to the sweeping winds of winter, unless, as some do who have small beds, the land be at once covered with stable manure. But there is another way to get rid of the seed, which in large fields is sometimes resorted to, which is to go over the bed and cut out the seed stalks. carry them from the field and burn them, or otherwise dispose of them, so they will not seed the land. The stalks that have no seeds on them are left on the field and a roller run over them that they may be in a condition to mulch the land; in the spring they must be raked off clean before plowing. When the tops are all taken off in the autum it is important that the land should be covered with a good dressing of manure as soon as the land is laid open to the sun and winds, but when only the seed stalks are taken it is not so important that the manure should be put on in the autumn; in fact, when the land is covered with a good crop of tops the manure may not be applied until the next spring, then it may be applied, not on the surface, but in a furrow made on each side of the row of roots, thus placing it down where the plants readily get hold of it; but when the manure is applied in the autumn this should not be done, because the roots will some of them be disturbed at a season when they ought not to be, and the land will be left in an exposed position. When-ever manure is applied to an asparagus bed in the autumn, it should be spread on the surface as a protection to the land.

When a person has only a small bed of a rod or two in the garden for family use, the garden will look better if the tops be all cut down and the land protected by two or three inches in depth of manufe, but when more than an inch in depth of manure is applied, it should be raked off early in the spring or it will keep the ground cold and the asparagus will not start as early. We have seen asparagus beds that had been covered Torkacco-L. with six inches in depth of manure in the autumn, kept back at least two weeks by the frost getting into the ground and kept there quite late by the heavy mulching of manure. If early asparagus is wanted the manure should be removed early, and the bed dug up as soon as the frost is out .- Massachusetts Ploughman.

CONSUMPTION.

Important to the Public as well as the Medical Profession. Hall's Journal of Health, referring to Consumption, makes the following important statement: "Consumption usually begins with a slight, dry cough in the morning, then on going to bed, getting more and more frequent, with more and more phlegm, increasing debility, thinness of flesh, shortness of breath, and quickness of pulse. In fatal cases its average course is about two years; hence the importance of arresting the disease at as early a stage as possible, and the sooner rational means are employed for this purpose the greater the chance of success. The disease is owing to an irritation commencing in the throat and extending to the lump of that the lump is the throat and extending to the lump of the throat and extending to the lump of the throat and extending to the lump of the lump ing to the lungs, so that their action is interferred with, and the blood does not re-ceive sufficient oxygen to purify it. The most marked sign of lung disease is emaciation; and the most positive indication of returning health is increase in weight." So speaks Hall's Journal of Health, and we may add that in desperate cases, and, in fact, in all cases of Consumption, or troubles of the throat and lungs, immediate relief may be obtained and a permanent cure effected by the use of Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, a medicine known for more than thirty-five years as an unfailing remedy for coughs, colds, bronchitis and all pulmonary and pectoral diseases. That the worst cases of Consumption have been cured by the use of Hall's Balsam has been attested to by the thousands who have used it, or have been cognizant of its wonderful

Healthy People Sometimes Laugh At the sufferings of dyspeptics, and say that their pains and distresses are imaginary. This is not meant for cruelty, but it is cruelty, all the same. A person who has a crooked foot, or a wounded hand, or a sightless eye, calls forth sympathy by the exhibition of the defective member. If the dyspeptics sufferer's stomach could be placed on exhibition, the cause of his distress would be apparent. The man with a troublesome stomach often suffers quite as much as the man with a broken leg, but is far less likely to receive sympathy.

Sympathy is good for sufferers, as far as it goes. But Brown's Iron Bitters is better, for it strikes at the root of these troubles, and cures disease. Disappointed dyspeptics, weary of having tried many experiments in seeking cure, will do well to make one fair trial of Brown's Iron Bitters, and report the result. That this well-tried family medicine will thus diminish the quantity of human suffering is an established fact.
